Interface with From2.com Provides Neopost Logistics Systems Users Guaranteed International Landed Transportation Costs

Neopost Logistic Systems Division Partners with Only Logistics Company to Guarantee International Shipping Costs and On-time Delivery

HAYWARD, Calif., Sept. 6, 2000 – Neopost Inc., a worldwide leading provider of mailing, document handling and logistics systems, and From2.com, an international logistics company, today announced a licensing and marketing agreement providing guaranteed international landed transportation costs to Neopost Logistics Systems users. Under the agreement, Neopost will embed a link to From2.com's international rating module, the Global Delivered Cost Calculator™, in all Neopost Logistics Systems software. From2.com will market Neopost Logistics Systems software to its users requiring an enterprise logistics system and application integration services.

From2.com's Global Delivered Cost Calculator determines the best rate and methodology for international shipping based on variables such as destination, contents and required delivery time. The company can ship any item, regardless of size, shape, weight, or value. Customers can choose from a variety of air, ground and ocean transportation options, with advance quotes for each option. From2.com is the only international logistics company to guarantee landed cost and on-time delivery of a package to an international destination. Landed cost incorporates the total shipping costs, which can include freight, insurance, duties, taxes, VAT, customs clearance fees and other related charges. Customers can track packages online anytime during the entire shipping process.

By clicking on an icon, Neopost Logistics Systems users will now be able to determine in real time the cost for international door-to-door transportation. The international shipper can also upload product information to From2.com, which automatically assigns the international product codes necessary to determine duties, weights, and customs limitations. The Neopost customer then downloads the documentation necessary to meet trade compliances at international borders.

"We are delighted to provide added value to our logistics customers through this agreement with From2.com," said Jean Weber, vice president of Neopost's Logistics Systems Division. "As e-commerce portals and traditional businesses continue to offer their products across international borders, Neopost Logistic Systems, through this agreement, provides the best domestic and international shipping solutions to meet their needs."

"Incorporating From2 Technology into existing Neopost applications enables the user to obtain exact international delivery costs. We are proud to be affiliated with Neopost, and look forward to many years of continued alliance, " said Robert Redlhammer, From2's Vice President of Innovations.

Neopost's interface to From2.com's Global Delivered Cost Calculator will soon be available in all of its logistics systems at no additional charge.

About From2.com

From2 (www.From2.com) empowers e-businesses everywhere to transact e-commerce anywhere in the world. From2 provides e-merchants and buyers with powerful tools and previously unobtainable information that overcome trade barriers and simplify the processes for successful international e-commerce. The Company's core product is the Global Delivered Cost Calculator™ (GDCC™), a patent-pending technology that eliminates all cost complexities related to international deliveries for the convenience of online buyers around the world. The GDCC instantly calculates in advance the all-inclusive delivered cost of goods directly on the vendor's website, including freight, insurance, duties, taxes, VAT, customs clearance fees and other import charges.

As an integral part of its suite of e-commerce and trade intelligence solutions, From2 handles trade compliance and customs clearance to ensure legal, hassle-free and expeditious delivery and offers comprehensive logistics services through its domestic and international facilities, including warehousing, fulfillment, international door-to-door delivery and online tracking. For those e-merchants with pre-existing international logistics routing and rating systems, From2 is able to integrate the GDCC's all-inclusive delivered cost information into those systems on a transactional basis.

Headquartered in Miami, Florida, From2 has offices in Washington D.C., Toronto, Canada and Santiago, Chile, and is opening additional offices in key cities throughout the United States, Latin America and Europe.
